

Since last development, I now have sound again and a working UI keyboard! I have also added buttons to correspond to the different vowel sets and am planning on setting up keys to do the same. I still do not have the vowel switching functional, so the buttons and keys are not hooked up to anything. I expanded my noteMap to include the full chromatic sets of files for all of the vowels. I am still working on applying the envelope to the sound and having a key pressing visual. My file paths also are not working the way I thought they would, so I have only had success with taking the files out of their folder and calling them by name instead of path. I'm not sure if my issues require major rearrangement, but I would love advice either way.
